Personal profile

When I looked into trading as an option for extra income I was looking for something different to sink my teeth into. Being involved in sales for the majority of my career I felt like I needed to learn something new, and happened to come across Simple-Fx video and it spoke to me. People buy people and Rich sold that I needed to learn trading through Simple-Fx, thank god I did! I am so grateful, I'm now working from home and my own boss in the space of 6 months of starting my trading journey.

What previous experience do you have with trading?

None

Which part of the course has helped you improve your trading skills the most?

I'm still learning using the amazing Simple-Fx training modules, my favourite is learning all about fibonacci sequence.

How many points on average are you winning each month?

My 6 month goal is now to be securing around 700- 900 points per month, growing month by month.

Out of 5 stars, how would you rate your overall experience with Simple FX?

★★★★★

Richard's Monthly Recap

Looking ahead to the month in trading

As we come to the end of the year, I just want to take a moment to say a genuine thank you to every single one of you who's been part of the Simple FX journey this year.

Whether you've joined us for live trading sessions, group mentoring, workshops, or you quietly tune in and learn in your own time, you matter, and you're appreciated more than you probably realise.

This year has reminded me that trading isn't just about charts, strategies, or numbers on a screen. It's about people. It's about confidence, patience, discipline, and having the right support around you when things don't go to plan, because let's be honest, they don't always.

For many of us, December is a time to slow down, reflect, and reset. Use this time well. Step away from the noise, enjoy time with family and friends, and come back in the new year with a clear head and renewed focus.

We've got some exciting plans for 2026, and I genuinely believe the best is still ahead for this community. If this year taught you anything, let it be this: progress beats perfection, and consistency always wins over time.

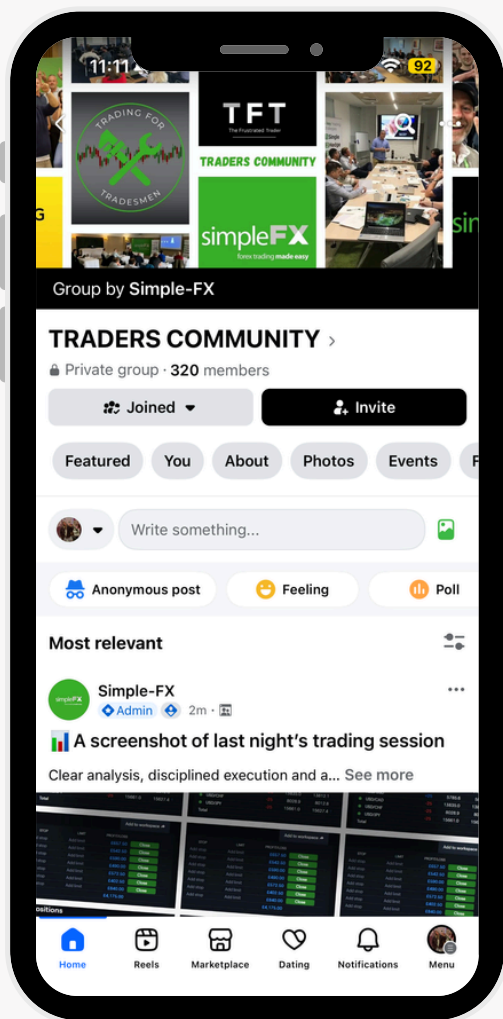

From myself, Helen, and the whole Simple FX team, have a peaceful Christmas and a strong, focused start to the New Year.

See you in the markets soon,
Rich
