KEEPING UP WITH SIMPLE

January delivered fast moving markets, powerful price action, and no shortage of talking points across forex, indices, and crypto. From shifting central bank expectations to bursts of volatility that kept traders on their toes, the year has already reminded us why preparation and strategy matter more than ever.

As we step into February, the momentum isn't slowing down. This month brings fresh opportunities, key economic data, and the chance to refine what's already working while learning from the market's early lessons. Whether January helped you build confidence, sharpen your discipline, or rethink your approach, now is the perfect time to reset, refocus, and trade with purpose.

Richard's Monthly Recap

Looking ahead to the month in trading

A big welcome to all our new members, great to have you with us. You've joined at a really strong point in the journey.

The results and feedback we've seen recently, particularly through The PiT, have been genuinely encouraging. Better structure, clearer thinking, and more confidence in decision-making across the board. That doesn't happen by accident, it comes from people engaging properly, asking questions, and focusing on process over noise.

I also want to highlight how important referrals continue to be to this community. The referral scheme isn't just about rewards, it's about growing with the right people. Many of our strongest members have come through personal recommendations, and that says a lot about the standard of this group.

A warm welcome as well to Jack, who has officially joined the company as an apprentice. He's already getting stuck in across The PiT and member support, and you'll be seeing more of him as he develops into the role.

Finally, a genuine thank you to the team behind the scenes. The consistency, support, and professionalism you see day to day doesn't happen without hard work, so thank you to everyone who keeps things moving and keeps standards high.

There's a lot being refined quietly in the background, and a few developments on the horizon that will open new opportunities for members who want to go deeper and be more involved. More on that soon.

Thanks, as always, for being part of this.

— Rich

SFX ARE GOING GLOBAL!

SPAIN HERE WE COME

We're excited to share that SFX is branching out into Spain, partnering with one of our own existing students, Alex Cox, to take Simple FX to the next level internationally.

This is an exciting step forward for the SFX Community and a proud moment for us to see our students growing alongside the brand. While things are still in development, we're working behind the scenes to bring something special to Spain and this is just the beginning.
