Amazing

10/10 from starting I felt welcomed and got the support I need almost instantly when needed. My trading already has seen improvements and charts are a lot more clearer. Richard is very passionate about trading and is an incredible mentor.

Would recommend to anyone who is serious about learning trading

I honestly couldn't ask for a better...

I honestly couldn't ask for a better mentor. The support is consistent every single day not just trading talk, but real encouragement, mindset guidance, and accountability. It never feels transactional; it feels like someone genuinely invested in your progress.

We have regular coffee morning Zoom calls which are great for community, learning, and asking questions in a relaxed environment. There are also trade ideas shared, sometimes extra calls when the market needs it, and constant reminders about important news events throughout the day so you're never caught off guard.

What stands out most is the structure and discipline that's encouraged proper risk management, patience, and consistency rather than hype. It's helped me grow in confidence and understanding massively.

If you're serious about forex and want real guidance with daily support, I'd highly recommend.

Finally trading with confidence

I've been trading for 5 years, now most weeks breaking even as I just couldn't quite believe in myself when trading. Simple FX have given me the confidence I needed to become a consistent profitable trader. I highly recommend simple Fx if you're serious about becoming a stock trader. 🙌🙌🙌

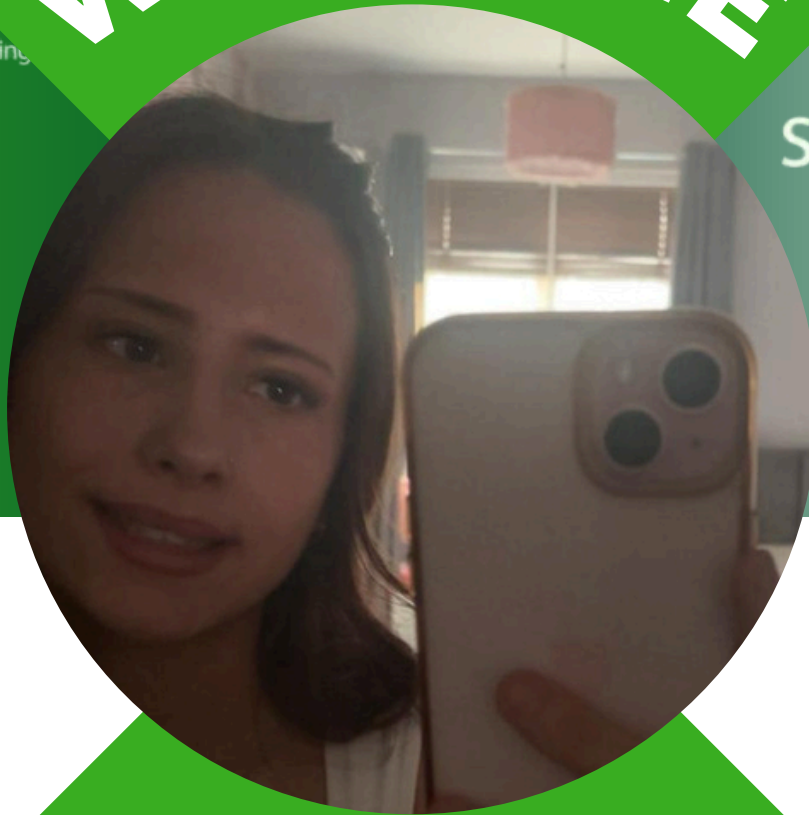

Richard's Monthly Recap

Looking ahead to the month in trading

Markets right now are doing a very good job of humbling people. What we're seeing isn't clean trend or clear direction it's a mix of macro uncertainty, geopolitical noise, and positioning shifts. That creates an environment where moves look convincing... but don't follow through. And that's exactly where most retail traders get caught.

There's a tendency in these conditions to do more, more trades, more risk, more screen time trying to force results. But the reality is, this is a phase where doing less, not more, is what separates those who protect capital from those who give it back. The professionals aren't chasing this market. They're waiting, managing risk, and picking their moments carefully. Sometimes the best decision in trading isn't the next trade it's knowing when not to take one.

WELCOME

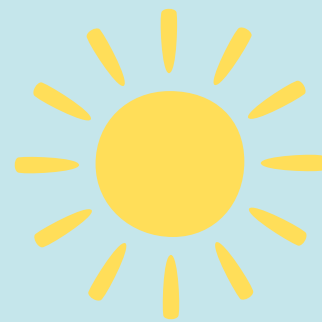

MYLEI

Mylei will be supporting us with video editing and content creation, helping us continue to improve the quality of the content we produce for our community and students.

As we keep growing, having extra creative support allows us to bring you more engaging videos, clearer educational material, and fresh content across our platforms. Mylei will be working behind the scenes on editing, organising content, and helping us develop new ideas to keep everything moving forward.

We're looking forward to having her involved and seeing the positive impact she brings to the team over the coming months.

Please join us in giving Mylei a warm welcome!

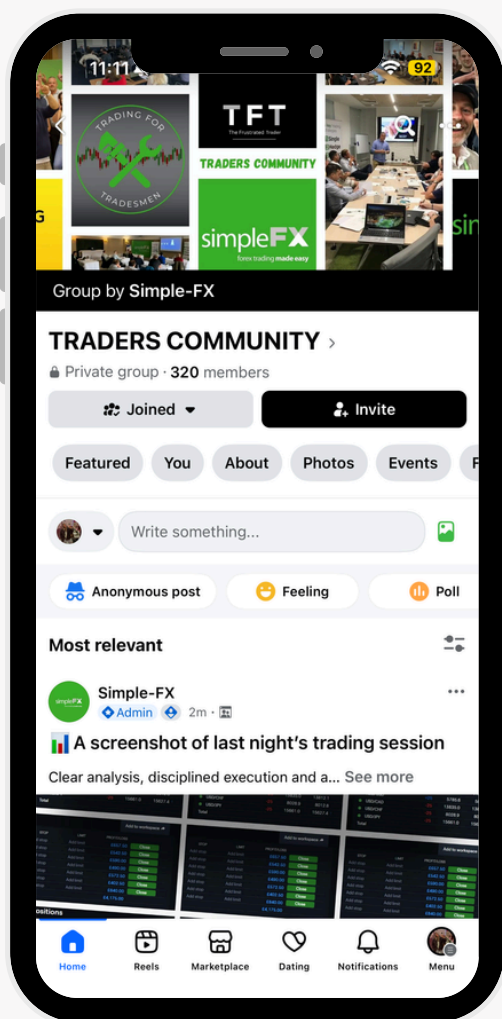

- Happy - Easter Day

Happy Easter from the Team!
Wishing all our traders a joyful Easter full of hope,
growth, and a little extra luck in the markets!
Remember: just like trading, Easter is about patience,
timing, and spotting the opportunities that others might miss. Enjoy the holiday, recharge, and get ready to make some smart moves!
